MEMORANDUM FOR: The Honorable Henry A. Kissinger
Assistant to the President
(National Security Affairs)

SUBJECT: Arms Shipments to India and Pakistan During the First Half of 1975

1. In National Security Decision Memorandum 289, the President requested from the Director of Central Intelligence and the Secretary of Defense a semi-annual report (on June 30 and December 30 of each year) summarizing arms shipments to Pakistan and India from all sources. The President also requested that each report assess the prospective military capabilities of India and Pakistan, including nuclear capability as appropriate.

2. The attached memorandum is the first of these semi-annual reports. It covers the military imports of Pakistan and India during the first half of 1975 and the impact of such imports on the military balance between the two countries. A fuller discussion of the military capabilities and balance between India and Pakistan is provided in an annex.

3. The memorandum was prepared by the Central Intelligence Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, and the Bureau of Intelligence and Research, Department of State. It is concurred in by the Secretary of Defense.

INTERAGENCY INTELLIGENCE MEMORANDUM

SUBJECT: Arms Shipments to India and Pakistan During the First Half of 1975

KEY POINTS

- India's military imports during the first half of 1975 totalled $91 million compared to a total of $25 million for Pakistan.

- These imports have had no significant impact on the decisive military advantage that India holds over Pakistan.

- Neither country imported items which affected its nuclear capability.

- The USSR continued to be India's major source of military imports.

- In February, the Soviets and Indians signed a major new military aid agreement with an estimated value of at least $200 million and possibly as much as $500 million.

- Pakistan concluded no major new arms agreements during the first half of 1975, despite the lifting of the US arms embargo in February.
